These figures do not include future exposures due to a lack of funding in social insurance programs. The net present value of these deficits is a projected $40.23 trillion.